In this next section of השקפה, we will study together the personal spiritual journal of Rebbe Kalonymous Kalman Shapira, the great rebbe of the Warsaw Ghetto. In it, the rebbe writes 48 short chapters of spiritual insight.

The chapters are, for the most part, independent ethical and spiritual teachings. What unifies them is passion, candor, and an eye towards recognizing spiritual opportunity and the deeply personal way in which each of us can and must develop our spiritual lives and our relationship with G-d.

On the eve of the Rebbe's 63rd yahrtzeit, ד' חשון, Rabbi Gidon Shoshan begins this holy ספר.
